

Published: May 04, 2010

Home / news / local /

Brevard Looking To Be "Coolest Small Town"

By Rich Klindworth

Tucked against the Pisgah Nation Forest is a Western North Carolina town trying to become Budget Travel's "Coolest Small Town" in America.

Tucked against the Pisgah Nation Forest is a Western North Carolina town trying to become Budget Travel's "Coolest Small Town" in America.

Brevard is among 21 finalists for the "Coolest Small Town in America" contest.

Currently they are second behind Ely, Minnesota.

Those in Brevard say they have the coolest town, citing their college, downtown, shopping, music, and outdoor life.

"I think there's a mistake, I think they think Ely is the coldest small town in the country... we are the coolest," says Madrid Zimmerman of Brevard.

The voting goes until May 9th.

You can vote by heading here: <http://www.budgettravel.com/bt-srv/coolestsmalltowns/CST2010.html>

WSPA © Copyright 2009 Media General Communications Holdings, LLC. A Media General company.